

Joycelyn Longdon

Founder of ClimateInColour

Joycelyn Longdon, Environmental Justice Researcher at Cambridge University and Founder of ClimateInColour.

Joycelyn is an award winning educator and communicator who has been invited to speak on topics such as environmental justice, regenerative design, green technology and climate colonialism by The United Nations Geneva Dialogues, Channel 4, Cheltenham Science Festival, Oxford University and The Design Council, as well as becoming a recent TEDx Alumni.

She was the 2022 winner of the Emerging Designer London Design Medal and was most recently featured in British Vogue's December 2023 'Forces for Change' Issue.